

DeLonghi “Bambino” Oil Filled Radiators

We’ve also come across a fantastic and flexible heating product recently to keep your cats snug and warm in the winter.

The DeLonghi “Bambino” oil filled radiator is a great product for providing background heat. It is especially practical where cats tend to spend a lot of time in one particular room and it can be more convenient and cheaper than leaving the central heating on.

It is stylish, compact, very portable and easy to move from room to room, with simple controls (an off/on switch and a thermostat knob). By turning the thermostat knob, the heater can be set to maintain a particular room temperature.

Quite apart from being handy for keeping the feline members of our families comfortable when we are out of the house, it is very useful for general family use such as providing extra heat for a conservatory, bedroom, study or home workshop.

There is a 500 watt version for a smallish room (around £50 from Argos and other outlets).

and an 800 watt version giving greater flexibility (around £60).

Your cats will love the extra heat!
